

Clive Barham Carter studied History and Egyptology at Cambridge and spent a season excavating at Saqqara, having been awarded an Egypt Exploration Society scholarship. He joined the staff at Charterhouse to teach History and remained at the school for thirty years, becoming a Housemaster, Deputy Head and Acting Head. He has worked for the National Gardens Scheme and now lectures widely.